Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services
CHARLES H. BRONSON, Commissioner

Dear Friends:

Hunger in America continues to be a serious problem. Despite the progress that has been made in recent years, studies consistently find that a significant portion of our nation's children and elderly, as well as households where one or more adults work, are in need.

The State of Florida and the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services have actively sought sensible solutions to the problem of hunger by forming partnerships with Florida farmers, non-profit organizations and food relief agencies to find new ways to provide a dependable food supply to those in need. The Florida Legislature's support and commitment to the Food Recovery Program Act has assisted in the success of this worthwhile program. This law encourages prospective donors and bona fide charitable or non-profit organizations that provide food for the needy or collect and transport food to such organizations to make every reasonable effort to work together to collect and distribute surplus or excess canned or perishable food.

This Guide lists organizations that have indicated to the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services their interest to participate in the Food Recovery Program and the types of foods they have the capability to recover. The Department does not approve or endorse specific organizations. However, this information is provided to you as a public service, and we encourage you to use it as a reference.

Through our joint efforts, we can help provide a secure food supply and eliminate hunger in Florida. Your participation and commitment is appreciated by all involved and all in need.

Sincerely,

FOOD RECOVERY PROGRAMS

WHAT IS FOOD RECOVERY

The Food Recovery Program is a coordinated effort involving the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, Florida farmers, wholesalers, retailers, community action agencies and other food relief agencies. It supplements Federal food assistance programs by making better use of a food source that already exists.

- The program is committed to addressing the issue of hunger.
- The purpose is forthright: Get surplus or unmarketable food to those in need.
- The technique is direct: Gather food that has been deemed unmerchantable and distribute it to the needy.
- The goal is noble: To end hunger in America.

The four most common methods of food recovery are:

Field Gleaning - The collection of crops from farmers' fields that have already been mechanically harvested or on fields where it is not economically profitable to harvest.

Perishable Food Rescue or Salvage - The collection of perishable produce from wholesale and retail sources.

Food Rescue - The collection of prepared foods from the food service industry.

Nonperishable Food Collection - The collection of processed foods with long shelf lives.

When foods or produce are rejected at the retail and wholesale levels, the Food Recovery Program is an excellent alternative to dumping at the local landfill. The continued success of the Food Recovery Program is dependent upon all of us. The past successes of the program are indicative of what a united front can accomplish. We have banded together to provide assistance to the less fortunate, while exemplifying conscientious responsibility and resourcefulness.

WHY IS IT NEEDED

A study by the Community Childhood Hunger Identification Project reports that most low income families must receive food assistance from several sources, relying on Federal food assistance programs as well as emergency food programs. Even with Federal assistance and the work of charities and nonprofit organizations, nearly 20 percent of the requests for emergency food assistance go unmet.

In a study by the USDA for the period ending December 2002, it was reported that 34.9 million people in U.S. households were food insecure, with 13.1 million of them being children. The data showed that 11.1 percent of U.S. households reported that at some time during the year they were uncertain of having, or were unable to acquire, adequate food to meet their basic needs. Of these, about 3.8 million households were food insecure to the extent that one or more household members went hungry at least some time during the year. It is deplorable that this is happening while a quarter of the nation's food is thrown away each year.

Currently, 5 percent of Florida's elders are considered "food insecure" compared to 5.8 percent nationally. This 5 percent figure equates to 162,700 sixty plus, food insecure Floridians. Chronic hunger and malnutrition take a heavy toll on children's lives. Days missed from school, inattention in class, stunted growth and frequent illness jeopardize their education and their futures as productive citizens.

Yet, it is estimated that, approximately one-fourth of America's food goes to waste each year, with an estimated 96 billion pounds of food ending up in landfills. Millions of people could have benefitted from those lost resources.

HOW CAN YOU HELP

The operation of the Food Recovery Program is three-fold:

- Locate unsold or unmerchantable food and fresh produce.
- Coordinate its transportation and storage.
- Distribute it to the needy.

There are various ways to get involved in the fight against hunger and demonstrate commitment to the community.

Food Service Professionals

- Organize a food drive and donate food to a local food bank or pantry.
- Donate excess prepared food from restaurants, school cafeterias or catered events.
- Assist organizations in training their volunteers in safe food-handling practices.

Nonprofit Organizations

- Work independently or with existing organizations to assist on-going food recovery efforts.
- Support or develop a community or regional coalition against hunger.
- Develop a community financial fund to fight hunger.
- Plan tours of food recovery facilities or arrange for knowledgeable speakers to increase community awareness of hunger and poverty problems, and what people are doing to address them.

Youth Service Groups and Volunteer Organizations

- Work on their own or with existing organizations to assist on-going food recovery efforts.
- Organize essay, oratorical or art contests for school children to focus on a child's view of hunger and its consequences.
- Sponsor a community garden that gives a portion of the harvest to food banks, soup kitchens, and other food recovery programs.
- Supply gardening tools and harvesting equipment for local gardening and gleaning efforts.

Individual Citizens

- Volunteer at the food recovery program closest to you.
- Attend food safety training sessions so you are better prepared to volunteer in a soup kitchen or shelter.
- Suggest that organizations you belong to or businesses you work for sponsor food recovery programs.
- Join or form a community walk/run to benefit a food recovery program.

Businesses and Corporations

- Encourage, recognize, and reward employees and other individuals for volunteer service to the community. Increase employee awareness of local hunger and provide training to make employees more useful volunteers.
- Sponsor radio and television air time for community organizations that address hunger.
- Donate excess prepared and processed food from the employee cafeteria or from special events to local food recovery programs.
- Donate transportation, maintenance work, or computer service.
- Prepare legal information on donor considerations such as "Good Samaritan" laws and food safety and quality.

WHAT ARE THE LEGAL ISSUES

The Emerson Good Samaritan Food Donation Act provides uniform national protection to those that act in good faith to donate, recover and distribute excess food. Likewise, Florida has enacted legislation that specifically addresses the liability for canned or perishable food distributed free of charge. Pursuant to s. 768.136(2) & (3), Florida Statutes:

(2) “A good faith donor or gleaner of any canned or perishable food, apparently fit for human consumption, to a bona fide charitable or nonprofit organization for free distribution shall not be subject to criminal penalty or civil damages arising from the condition of the food, unless an injury is caused by the gross negligence, recklessness, or intentional misconduct of the donor or gleaner.”

(3) “A bona fide charitable or nonprofit organization, or any representative or volunteer acting on behalf of such organization or an uncompensated person acting in a philanthropic manner providing services similar to those of such an organization, which accepts, collects, transports, or distributes any canned or perishable food, apparently fit for human consumption, from a good faith donor or gleaner for free distribution shall not be subject to criminal penalty or civil damages arising from the condition of the food, unless an injury is caused by the gross negligence, recklessness, or intentional misconduct of an agent of the charitable or nonprofit organization.”

FOR SERVICES AVAILABLE - FOOD BANKS, FOOD PANTRIES AND SOUP KITCHENS

- Food Banks provide food to other organizations like food pantries, soup kitchens, hunger relief centers, or other food or feeding centers. Usually, food banks do not distribute food directly to individuals.
- Food Pantries distribute food to low-income and unemployed households to take home.

- Soup Kitchens provide meals to the needy and the homeless on a regular basis.

In addition to perishable and non-perishable commercial foods donated by retailers, manufacturers, food service establishments, etc., many of the agencies listed in this booklet distribute U.S. Department of Agriculture commodities made available through the Emergency Food Assistance Program (TEFAP). Under TEFAP, commodity foods are distributed to organizations (ie., soup kitchens) in the state that use them in congregate feeding facilities for the needy, including the homeless, and to organizations (ie., food pantries) that provide them to eligible households for home consumption.

To be eligible to take commodities home, households must meet established income requirements or participate in another government program such as Food Stamps, Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF), Supplemental Security Income (SSI); Medicaid, or reside in public housing.

There are many worthwhile organizations, not included in this booklet, that provide food assistance directly to the needy. To find the location of a food pantry or soup kitchen in your area, you may contact the local food bank(s) listed by county in this Guide.

FOOD RECOVERY RESOURCE LIST

Following is a list of food recovery entities and food banks throughout Florida that participate in food recovery. Some of them may operate in more than one county. Therefore, you may also contact entities in adjoining counties for information. In addition, the USDA has established 1-800-GLEAN-IT (453-2648), a toll-free hotline to provide an easy-to-reach source of information on how to become a volunteer, donate food or get involved in a local gleaning or food recovery program.

FOOD RECOVERY ON THE INTERNET

Possible approaches to find gleaning and food recovery organizations and resources on the Internet:

1. Doing a general search of the World Wide Web

A general search of the World Wide Web can be conducted using search tools such as YAHOO or LYCOS. When using these tools be aware that the terms “hunger” and “hunger resources” are more likely to identify the relevant organizations than the terms “gleaning” or “food recovery.”

2. Beginning at specific sites

The following web sites are good starting points to search for gleaning and food recovery related web sites:

USDA Gleaning and Food Recovery Home Page:

<http://www.fns.usda.gov/fsec/>

Second Harvest:

<http://secondharvest.org/>

Society of St. Andrew:

<http://endhunger.org>

United Way:

<http://www.efsp.unitedway.org/>

The Chef and the Child Foundation:

<http://acfcchefs.org/>

Congressional Hunger Center:

<http://hungercenter.org>

Farm Share, Inc.:

<http://www.Farmshare.org>
